Explore a range of learning attributes in a high energy, heart tugging and often humorous setting.

Everyone has unique characteristics. Thank goodness! It would be a dull world if everyone thought or learned the same way. Throughout our lives we come to understand that some learning attributes may be accommodated, may be modified, and many are forever part of who we are.

Teachers, Parents and students: each have different perspectives, goals and insights into their roles.

The Hand You Were Dealt game play includes thoughtful discussion building collaboration and empathy across the broad experiences of giftedness.

From high achieving to creative and twice exceptional, The Hand You Were Dealt offers players a moment to question expectations and seek understanding in a playful and versatile setting.
